John Sr., It seems like yesterday we just met and you walked me down the aisle! Looking back, I can't believe it has already been 10 years since that day. I knew then, I/we were never going to forget the experience that we shared! What an honor it was for the both of us. I know your smiling, I am too... Since then our magnitude never ended. We've shared many stories of that day and laughed and joked mostly about the one of the Northern girls meeting the Southern boys! Hahaha, we'll keep that memory between us, Bubba Senior, spending time with you and the family has always had a hold on me. Watching you grow with your grandchildren, from crawling on all fours, to chasing them around the breakfast bar, or making them and us girls appreciate your "BOOTS", and dinner at home was so special. Thank you for the moments, the bickering, the laughs, and mostly for you just being YOU! Anyone who knows our John Sr. would be cracking up by now. Im proud to have had the chance to engage in so many memories with you and your family. From here rest for a bit, gather up the guns, boots, tables, and spirits (for me). I know that someday we will meet again. Dear friend this is not my good bye this is my see you later! XOXLove Always, Sontina Infantino-Lombardozzi and Familyaka T
