I'm going to miss our weekly phone calls and all that we have shared over the years as close cousins. So grateful for the way you were always responsible and took care of your Mother, our Aunt and for always looking out for our Mother. We shared a lot of fun times over the years, and your visit to Texas we will always remember. We have a hole in our heart, but we know that one day we will see each other again. Love our cousins and praying for comfort and peace in the days ahead. Hugs and Blessings, Vicky and Julie

Today was a bitter sweet day. I got to see my high school sweet heart, my one true love, my husband one last time before he was laid to rest. We may not have been together at this moment but I know in my heart that he loved me and would had wanted me to be a part of making his decisions. I'm really bitter at the way I've been treated by his family and my on loved ones, because he and I were separated due to his drinking and all though he was a great guy when sober once the drinking started it was hell to be around. The family only knows his side so mine don't matter. But like I said I know , he knew and the good Lord above knows how much love we had for each other and how he would have wanted things done. I know I can lay my head down a rest peacefully. I wish nothing bad on no one but what comes around goes around, you treat others the way you want to be treated.
