Y'all ever meet someone and instantly just click right away? And you just know that God sent them into your life at that PERFECT time of need, to help nurture you, to lift you up, to help you grow, & to show you the definition of a true friend. Karolynn was my recovery sister for life, man && the bond we shared is something I'll never forget. I'm really having a hard time accepting and processing her death; especially because we just spoke the day before her passing. && anyone who knows Karolynn & mines relationship- we have DEEP conversations, we didn't do too much of small talk. She was the most selfless, caring person I've ever gotten the privilege of knowing. She had the most beautiful spirit and she cared for everyone she crossed paths with. And she loved her son Charlie more than anything in this world. Prayer warriors please keep Karolynn's family and friends in your prayers and ask God for the strength to get through this. She impacted so many life's and will truly, truly be missed. She could light up the room and didn't even have a clue she was doing it. I know that without Karolynn, I would have never made it to where I was in my life/recovery. And I don't really think I got the chance to let het know exactly how I felt. I will FOREVER call her my sister 💜Megan ElliottSober Living AmericaSpartanburg Women's CampusDirectorUntil we meet again my sweet friend, I love you. & I will ALWAYS remember you. I remember finding out I was pregnant, just 17 years old... months short from graduating high school and turning 18. I was freaking out a little bit and I called Kalynn to come rescue me, because I couldn't bare to look my dad in the eyes. We got to the Madison house as we call it, and everyone was there to talk to me. As soon as i walked in, Karolynn was jumping for joy saying you're pregnant aren't you? Karolynn was beyond excited to be an auntie. Karolynn always found the good in things and even people. She would let you know exactly how she was feeling, and her smile would light any room up. I have one amazing best friend who I call my sister, and now shes just my angel. I will always cherish the times we had together good or bad. I will always love you for being the best friend and sister to me. I will always love you and your family. Until we meet again, I love you Karolynn Ann. P.S give dad, mamo, and papo a big hug from me.
