Charles Reeves lit a candle in honor of Henry.

Henry Aka Onion Head I'm gonna miss you more than you will ever know. Life won't be the same without you. Sit back drink a beer man your struggles are over. I love ya Henry

Donna Savley lit a candle in honor of Henry.

Henry was the light of my life, and we were very close, and we were the best of friends too! Although at times he drove me crazy my life will never be the same without him. I have so many fond memories of him when he was growing up. He loved to pick on everyone especially his cousins Lisa, Chris and Bobby. He loved his family dearly. He had his uncle Billy who he spoke to often and his aunt Jean. In the end his Uncle David led Henry to Christ. He is now in the arms of the Lord and with his Family that passed before him. Henry will be dearly missed and never forgotten. Donna Savley

Bob Tate posted:

I'm saddened by the loss of Henry. We spent most of our time, he, Chris and I, together when we were little. He was a wild child, never afraid of anything. Never afraid to stand toe to toe with me, even though he only reached about mid-chest at the time. We grew apart as we got older, but I often thought about him and the goofy things we did when we were young. I hate that I was so far away and we didn't get to spend much time together. I'll miss the hell out of him.
