Jenny was one of the first big influencers of my life after graduating college. I worked at Bennett Tool and Die for 6 1/2 years. It was a great opportunity. Some of my favorite memories were the office Christmas party where Eli and Jenny would stuff ornaments with money then let you pick your ornament out of a bowl. I remember my first Christmas bonus and ham as well which shocked me as a kid out of college working my first real job. Appreciate Jenny and Eli's generous hearts. As I learned more about stock trading, Jenny and I spent some time talking about investing. I remember her story about walking into Cracker Barrel and saying something like, "This place is busy. Good time to buy some stock in Cracker Barrel." She was right. ;) To Jenny and the Bennett family, thank you for giving me the opportunity as an inexperienced college kid to intern and work at Bennett Tool and Die. You made me feel welcome, invested in me, and taught me a lot about life and business. Sorry for your loss. An amazing woman.
