Below is a poem written for Candi by her sister Rose entitled "Entering the Ring":

When entering the ring
All shining and glimmering like a star
In her beautiful costumes
You can hear the whistling, clapping, and screaming of her fans
Then when her opponent enters
You can hear the hatred and booing sounds from the fans.
Finally, it gets on the way
But by no way is it for play
She's in there not only to do what she wants
But also what her fans want
When she's down, she's not for long
For she has her fans to cheer her on
She takes the bumps
And gives the bumps
She gets bruises, and sometimes bloody
Which can be like a flood, but
She'll never quit.
For in the end, the good old
Sun-set flip,
Will bring her victory
To not just her, but also her fans
Who love her dearly
For she is my one and only
Sister, Candi Divine,
A legend in her time.

“ Candi was so wonderful. I worked with her in the AWA back in the 1980's and saw her last in Atlanta in 2011. We continued to maintain contact on Facebook. Bless her heart, she had a tough last couple of years. I am so sorry for your loss.

“ To The Rummel Family:

I was deeply saddened to hear of Candi's passing. My deepest sympathy goes out to everyone. I worked with Candi in The Jarrett Senior territory in 1985 as Tux Newman, then manager of Macho Man Randy Savage. I came in from California and was greeted very nicely by her and complimented her on her mat skills. Was also there the night her cheek bone and jaw were broken in a freak accident. Her spirit and love for the business shined through even then. Eventually we all go down that ring aisle one final time. May that walk find Candi at peace and rest forever.

*With deepest affection,
Tux Newman (Jeff Walton) Los Angeles, CA.*
