“ Tammy,

Your family is deeply missing you already. I know you are looking down and seeing how much love your family and friends truly had/have for you. Your life touched and effected all those around you. Most people have siblings and knows that it is a very special bond between each other. In our case, being one of seven siblings, our bond was very strong. Rhonda and I were the big sisters. We were lucky enough when you and the rest of the siblings were born to hold you in our arms, help mom feed you, hold your little hand and call you our little sis. Then when Tonya, Tracey, Little Gene, & Tab were born and you became the big sister to them but you were still the baby sister of Rhonda and I.

We had wonderful parents and grandparents and losing you feels like it did when we lost them. A piece of my whole life has been taken away from me sooner than I wanted and it's so hard knowing that our circle of seven is now weakened. Your place in our circle will forever be there but only in memory.

Growing up although so close, we all fought like cats and dogs but let someone other than a sibling mess with one of us, we knew we had 6 other siblings on standby if needed. It was the same as adults, and the reason for this is because we were a close family. You will forever be a Barefoot Boyd!

As adults, we married, had children and for most of us now, grandchildren. Those bonds are very strong also but each is a different kind of bond. No one, including our children will ever understand the bond between the seven of us because they didn't grow up in our household with us.

I'm gonna miss hearing your voice, the sister nights, your sarcasm, and even the occasional disagreements but I am so happy to know that if needed I still have 6 little siblings that will be there for me to help lift me up because you will be standing beside us still. You are no longer just our sister! You are the Angel that will watch over me for the rest of my life. Just know that your memory and the love we have for you will never leave any of our hearts. Give everyone a big hug and kiss for us in heaven.

I love you

Lora

“ Tammy was a beautiful person, a wonderful smiling addition to my day. As an LSO driver I had the joy of talking to her, and often seeing her during my hectic day. She always had a smile for me, she kept me busy, did an outstanding job dispatching. I will miss her so much, every day. All my love, prayers for her family during this time. Blessings, Bob K.
